

Gestation / Embryology / Infant Presentation Scoring Sheet

Members:

Topic:

Poss.	Earned	Item	Explanation
1		Title Page
2		Timeline	an overview of what is to come in the presentation to prepare the viewers.
2		Phases	Carnegie Stage, or any other critical events that get a title of some sort to describe that period of time. (ie. a Phase of high school is Freshman, Sophomore, etc.)
25		Content	Did you describe all of the important events that occur during the period of time you are researching? Is anything you said wrong? Did you leave out something important?
5		logical order	Are your slides arranged in a logical order in relation to one another or is it just a bunch of individual facts with no flow?
5		explained information clearly	Slides are physically laid out and your writing is clear enough that your presentation is easy to understand. (If someone reads a slide and they go "HUH?" than something isn't clear.
6		Disorders / Diseases / Problems	Your slides outlined common medical problems that can occur (or begin) during this phase. Usually physical but can include mental or emotional.
6		Medical Interventions	Did you describe the typical medical tests done on the mother / baby during this time period? If there are medical conditions, what treatments are available?
8		At least 1 form of multimedia that pertained to the topic was included	Did you have at least 1 audio or video clip in your presentation that explains one of the important topics. It cannot just be fluff, it has to be relevant.
XC (8 max)		Prettiness	How visually appealing and creative is your presentation? Is it nice to look at without being annoying and busy?
60

Oral Presentation to class

5		Each member presented an equitable amount of material	This is not just equal numbers of slides. It is also about equally dividing the big topics or difficult material.
5		Each member was knowledgeable about their content when delivering or when being questioned.	You knew what you were talking about when doing the presentation. You did NOT just read the slides. After the presentation, you were able to answer questions about your topic that demonstrates understanding of the material.
5		Each member delivered their content in a clear, understandable way.	You spoke clearly and loudly enough to be heard, you didn't mumble the whole thing. You made sense and didn't confuse the audience by stopping, starting, correcting yourself and repeating things you already said.
15			